Today I had discouraging news. The Catholic theologian from Lyon on whom I had put my hopes, when he learned that I do not belong to the Roman Catholic community, his enthusiasm became cold. He said that I'm experiencing God, but he does not understand that it's far beyond this, for God is giving a message to all of us; as far as the ecclesiastical authorities and the Holy See. - But of course, why should he believe? I come from nowhere, so to speak. As I once said, if I were one of them I would have been accepted and they would have tried to glance at the message.

I was this morning wondering how Jesus must have felt when the Pharisees never believed Him and how difficult it must have been for Him to convince them that He was actually the Son of God. How misunderstood He was by them; it was beyond man's capacity to comprehend that it was possible at their time; they simply would not understand or accept such a miracle.

and how many now understand or believe fully in My Message?

Quite a few do, more than those who do not.

tell Me, which number is greater of those who listen, believe and understand fully My Message, My sheep or My lambs?
